

TRUMAN'S LABOR BILL VETO UPHELD

SIGLER FACES
SLANDER SUIT
FOR $200,000FOUR CANDIDATES
FOR GOVERNOR
WOO VOTERS

In the courts, along the highways and byways of the air and side by side at the festive board, the four Republican candidates for governor conducted their primary campaigns to a new crescendo Tuesday.

They go before the primary electors of Michigan a week hence.

Most outspoken of the candidates, silver-haired Kim Sigler, former special prosecutor of the Ingham county grand jury, was named defendant in a $200,000 slander suit in Macomb county.

He also took the spotlight at an unusual luncheon meeting of Kiwanis Club No. 1 in Detroit when, to their faces, he repeated his charges against his GOP opponents.

Victor Anderson, Ingham county prosecutor and close associate of Sigler in the latter's career as grand jury spearhead, took the air over Station WXYZ in behalf of the candidate from Battle Creek.

Kelly Confident

Lieutenant Governor Vernon J. Brown also broadcast a summation of his own political record over Station WJR as the campaign, most heated in years, moved toward its June 18 ballot-box climax.

The other two members of the GOP quartet also appealed to the voters over radio microphones in Detroit.

Raymond J. Kelly, veteran of World Wars I and II, told his listeners that he was confident of victory over Brown, "a rusty hinger on the door of progress," and Sigler, "a publicity-hungry, trick clothes horse" who "fought sin with sin, and gin with gin."

Mayor Edward J. Jeffries of Detroit also was busy winding up his campaign, based principally upon a demand for greater state aid to municipalities and school districts.

Sigler was named defendant in a $200,000 slander damage suit filed by State Senator Ivan A. Johnston, an 11th district Republican in the Macomb county circuit court at Mt. Clemens.

It is the outgrowth of their recent exchange of accusations over expenditures by the Ingham county grand jury.

Court Action "Welcomed"

Sigler said he welcomed the court action as an opportunity to "show the people of Michigan what he (Johnston) really is."

Sigler touched off fireworks at a "governor's day" luncheon of the Kiwanis club when he asserted there were grafters "very close" to Mayor Jeffries' city hall.

Jeffries, red-faced as he listened to the accusations, later replied calmly from the same rostrum that he knew a few grafters.

"We drove them out of town into his (Sigler's) balliwick," the mayor quipped. He added an accusation that Sigler failed as a grand jury prosecutor because the grafters "got him," instead of Sigler's "getting them."

Brown declined to reply to what he termed Sigler's insinuations that 41 convicted grafters in Lansing "would still be making the laws for all Vern (Brown) ever did."

Instead the lieutenant governor said his record was before the electors and declared that the state's present solvency "hardly bespeaks rottenness and corruption."

Liquor Control Rapped

Kelly, who was not singled out for attack by Sigler, suggested that, if what all the other GOP aspirants said about one another

Chetnik Chief
Denies Giving
Aid To Hitler

BY WILLIAM B. KING

Belgrade, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic admitted today that he had contact with the Germans and with the Yugoslav puppet government in 1941, but insisted he was trying to lure Quislings to join his forces.

The Chetnik leader said "I do not feel guilty" when asked how he would plead to charges of treason and collaboration, and later complained that the court had deprived him of much of his defense material.

The spare, bushy-bearded guerrilla leader testified that in 1941 he led an attack on a unit of Marshal Tito's Partisans, but he declared he attacked because "there was a group unknown to me and it began to plunder."

Lure For Quislings

Mihailovic said he defended Quisling gendarmes in clashes with Tito's Partisans because "I was preparing them to come over to me."

He testified his relations with Milan Nedlic, puppet premier who committed suicide while awaiting trial, were maintained in an effort to lure Quisling troops into the forest to fight the Germans, "as you did later."

(In a statement issued in New York, Col. Robert H. McDowell, chief of a U. S. mission to Mihailovic in 1944, said the Chetnik leader was "a bitter anti-Nazi" and that he had "seen and heard of absolutely no evidence serving to connect General Mihailovic personally, or officers under his direct command, with any form of collaboration with the Germans."

McDowell was named in the Yugoslav government's indictment of Mihailovic as meeting with the Chetnik leader and a German officer. His statement was issued through the committee for a fair trial for Draja Mihailovic.

Mihailovic, obviously tired under the continued hammering of the prosecution, was denied a continuance of his case for further study of his defense.

HOPE NOT DEAD

Conciliators Grapple For Solution To Avert
Tieup

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A bid from ship operators to pay for time off shore failed to click with the sailors today but left intact hopes of heading off a menacing nationwide maritime strike.

With the strike set for midnight Friday, a house labor subcommittee and government conciliators both grappled for a solution. They worked in an atmosphere of optimism unsupported by developments that came to the surface.

The optimism evidently was founded on indications that some compromise other than that suggested by management men today was in the wind.

The federal conciliators, one of them said, planned to "work all night tonight, if necessary" to produce a settlement.

In the open, there was little to justify the hopeful tone, except the fact that negotiations had not broken down and the house subcommittee had stepped into the dispute for the first time in search of an agreement.

The subcommittee heard Harry Bridges, president of the CIO Longshoremen's union. He said the government in effect had ordered ship operators "not to make any concessions."

The unions, he said, had made numerous proposals "receding from their original demands and trying to reach a compromise, but to date the attitude of the ship operators has not changed a bit."

Guard Bound Over
For Butter Theft

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Charles Goulder, 37, a former guard at the Detroit house of correction, was bound over today for circuit court trial on charges of theft of 2,200 pounds of butter from the prison.

Prison inmate James Jackson testified he gave Goulder 15 pounds of butter almost every week from February, 1944, to November, 1945. Goulder pleaded innocent.

Boig Of Brooklyn Now
Tree Hunnet Yizz Old

BY HOWARD COWAN

New York, June 11 (AP)—Tomorrow is Brooklyn's birthday.

The papers called it a tercentenary celebration but Flatbush understood better when somebody pointed to flags flapping in the breeze and said:

"It means da boig is tree hunnet yizz old."

And so it is, even older. The Dutch settled along the shores of Gowanus Bay in 1636, buying the village of Flatbush from the Rockaway Indians for a half barrel of beer and three cans of brandy.

Ten years later, June 12, 1646, Breucklen (meaning broken, or many lands) was recognized by the Dutch as a self-governing city.

Paradoxically, Brooklyn planned to celebrate three centuries of progress in dignified fashion. No fireworks, no parades, just lots of flags, speeches and meetings, like the Society for Prevention of Disparaging Remarks about Brooklyn, for instance.

To folks across the East river, their noses tilted to perfumed, Fifth Avenue breezes, a growing Brooklyn (absorbed into New York City 48 years ago) had only this to say on its 300th birthday:

"In relation to Manhattan, with its 1,904,000 population, Brooklyn with its 2,783,000 now is the tail that wags the dog!"

Flier Sweetheart

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Attractive, dark-eyed Mary Grace Simescu, 22-year-old queen of the automotive golden jubilee, eloped today with her navy flier sweetheart, Clifton W. Woody Jr., 25.

The couple were issued a marriage license early this afternoon in Angola, Ind., County Clerk Wade E. Libey reported. They told him they went to Angola from Detroit because they "didn't want any publicity."

Members of both families said the couple slipped away at dawn. Miss Simescu and Woody had been engaged two weeks. They were high school sweethearts.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. John W. Cordes, pastor of the Angola Methodist church, in the church's parsonage.

The couple then slipped away for a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination.

Boys Trapped In Current In Futile Attempt To Save Girl

Niles, Mich., June 11 (AP)—Two brothers and their sister drowned here today when the boys went to the assistance of the girl who was trapped in a cross-current in the St. Joseph river.

State police listed the dead as Fred Yost, 17; Arthur Yost, 16, and Jeannie Yost, 12, children of Mrs. Joseph Wolgensinger of RR4, four miles south of here.

According to police reports, the three victims and their eight year old brother went swimming about 1 p. m. today.

Jeannie encountered trouble and the two older boys rushed to her aid, only to be trapped in the treacherous current.

The youngest boy hurried to his home, a half mile away, and notified his mother who summoned state police and Niles firemen.

The bodies of the two boys, their arms inter-twined, were recovered an hour later in about 15 feet of water. The girl's body was found 30 minutes later.

Firemen and police made futile attempts to revive the trio.

SEVEN SLAIN,
50 INJURED IN
NAPLES RIOTSANGRY REPUBLICANS
MARCH ON PALACE
IN ROME

BY JOHN P. MCKNIGHT

Rome, Wednesday, June 12 (AP)—The blazing gun and bomb battle in Naples died to an occasional exchange of gunfire today as the casualty toll rose to at least seven persons dead and 50 wounded in yesterday's clash among Monarchist demonstrators, troops and opposing police factions.

A similar demonstration of violence was averted in Rome when almost 100,000 angry pro-Republicans, who marched on the Viminale palace demanding cabinet action to force King Umberto II into exile, dispersed after thundering their sentiments.

No Solution Yet

Giuseppe Romita, Socialist minister of the interior, who inspired the march on Viminale palace, cautioned the Republican sympathizers against bloodshed and warned them not to attack a smaller group of Monarchist sympathizers who cheered Umberto before the nearby Quirinale palace.

Meanwhile, Premier Alcide de Gasperi's cabinet assembled again shortly after midnight for their fifth session in 24 hours. The cabinet at its fourth session in Viminale palace late last night failed to find a solution to Umberto's refusal to leave the country and make way for the republic.

A pitched battle raged for hours in Naples' via Medina, with both police and Monarchists using automatic weapons and motor transport.

Fire Grenades Hurlled

The surging crowd of from 10,000 to 20,000 laid siege to Communist headquarters, adjacent to the police building, and hurled Molotov cocktails—bottled gasoline with flaming wicks—at the six-story building in a determined effort to destroy it.

Smaller battles broke out in several other sections of the city. Two bombs were thrown into the crowd from the Communist building, an eye-witness account said, "and all hell broke loose."

The Communists, barricaded in their building, were returning fire from other buildings in blockaded Via Medina, and late tonight the fighting still was in progress.

The demonstration in Rome was called to express impatience with the government for failing to proclaim the republic on this day set aside as a holiday to celebrate it.

Cabinet Deadlocked

"The situation is the same as it has been all day," Action Party Minister Alberto Cianca announced after the fourth hectic session. King Umberto, meanwhile, sat tight in the royal palace, conferring with his counselors and insisting that the result of the plebiscite was "indefinite."

The Naples riot—second major outbreak and most serious since the plebiscite which rejected the House of Savoy—began when Monarchist demonstrators stoned

Speaker At Lions
Meeting Stricken

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 11 (AP)—Lewis H. Sterner, 50, coordinator of apprentice training in Kalamazoo public schools, collapsed and died today when stricken with a heart attack while addressing the Lions club here.

Dr. Sherman Andrews, member of the audience, rushed to Sterner's side but the speaker had succumbed.

A native of Niles, Sterner was a graduate of Western Michigan College and had taught here since 1923.

Parts Of Michigan
Swelter In Heat

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Michigan residents sweltered today as the temperature soared into the 80's, with a high of 88 being reported in Detroit at 4 p. m.

The figure was nine degrees below the June 11 all-time high of 97 set in 1933.

"Slightly cooler, but no rain in sight" was the weatherman's prediction for Wednesday.

VETERANS REPORT FRAUD

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—An apartment caretaker pleaded innocent today to police charges that he "rented" an apartment to five veterans for a total of $800 in bonuses and pre-payment of rent.

Recorder's Judge W. McKay Skillman held Fritz Olsen, 32, in $2,000 bond for hearing June 24. Police said the apartment was occupied by tenants who had no intention of moving.

Senate Cuts Off
Powers Of OPA
In Price Control

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The senate sliced OPA's powers still further today in its first action on a price control bill which stabilization director Chester Bowles had protested already left the agency powerless to combat inflation.

It adopted without dissent a proposal by Senator Moore (R-Okla.) to require "prompt removal" of ceilings on manufactured products and other non-farm items whenever the supply exceeded or was in "approximate balance with" demand.

This wiped out discretionary powers OPA was left with in the measure as reported by the Senate Banking Committee. Under the committee bill, OPA could have retained ceilings if it believed prices would rise, as a result of lifting them, to a point exceeding "a true reflection of current costs plus reasonable profits."

One effect of Moore's amendment may be to require removal of ceilings from gasoline and petroleum products. The petroleum industry has contended that supplies are ample to meet demand.

Senator Wagner (D-NY) told the senate today that the OPA extension bill offered by the banking committee would "write the death sentence for effective price, wage and rent stabilization in the United States."

Wagner, chairman of the committee, took the floor to oppose specific provisions of its bill after Democratic leader Barkley (Ky) had opened debate on the measure with the pledge that an additional year's life will be all that will be asked for the OPA.

Barkley, pressing to get the bill through as quickly as possible, said night sessions will be held later this week if necessary. Once the senate acts, an agreement must be reached with the house before a bill is sent to President Truman. The present law expires June 30.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) suggested that congress find out "who is right and who is wrong" about the effect of price controls by removing them from some key industry. One of the arguments against OPA is that its regulations have retarded production.

Senator Lucas (D-III), a lawyer himself, demanded that both justices resign, "for the good of themselves and for the good of the country." He told a reporter that "there can't be any confidence in the court from here on as a result of this feud."

Jackson said he was issuing his statement at Nuernberg "in fairness of my future work on the court," however, and thus it appeared he had no intention of leaving. Black spent the day at his office in the supreme court building, despite the close of the term yesterday, but maintained his silence, as did the other justices.

Senators Eastland (D-Miss) and Wherry (R-Neb) of the judiciary committee told newsmen they believe the situation calls for a congressional investigation and Eastland announced he will discuss the matter in the senate tomorrow.

Jackson's cable to the senate and house judiciary committees was received at the end of the day but members of the house group were reluctant to discuss it.

Total Of 103 Fairs
Booked In Michigan

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—With the exception of the State Fair at Detroit, Michigan summer and fall fair program will be back to pre-war strength this year, Clarence Bolander, deputy director of Agriculture, said today.

All county fairs which were in operation before the war will be resumed this year and the Upper Peninsula State Fair at Escanaba, scheduled for August 27 to September 1, will be held this fall for the first time since the start of the war.

A total of 103 fairs and festivals are expected to be held this year.

HOUSE VOTES
AMID BOOING
AND CHEERINGPRESIDENT BACKED BY MARGIN OF
ONLY FIVE

BY CLAIR JOHNSON

Washington, June 11 (AP)—A tumultuous House today upheld President Truman's veto of the Case labor bill by the hairline margin of five votes—and its backers immediately planned a drive to revive the measure.

Amid boos and cheers, 255 legislators voted to override the veto and 135 to sustain. Since a two-thirds vote was necessary to override, the measure died for the time being.

But undeterred supporters made plain that they were bent on passing its major provisions anew—perhaps in the form of an amendment to Mr. Truman's own strike-control legislation. This would force him to accept the Case program or forego his own bill. The fact that the Case bill backers obtained a good majority on today's vote helped fuel the new drive.

More Strife Feared

The dramatic vote was completed within 30 minutes after the clerks finished reading the president's 4,500 word veto message to the jam-packed chamber.

Mr. Truman based his veto on the argument that the permanent, long-range bill would breed rather than curb labor strife and would force men to work for private employers in peacetime.

The Case bill would have created a federal mediation board, restricted strikes and lockouts while the board was functioning; prohibited secondary boycotts; and permitted court suits against employers or labor organizations violating contracts.

There was talk among its supporters of trying to revive it and tack it onto temporary, emergency legislation asked by President Truman. In the form it passed the House, the latter measure would permit the president to draft men who struck in industries seized by the government, but the Senate struck this provision out. The Truman measure has been stuck in the House rules committee, pending action on the Case bill.

Reasons Listed

The president in his veto message drew a sharp distinction to draw between his own temporary bill and the Case measure.

Of the latter, he said: "Men cannot be forced in a peacetime democracy to work for a private employer under compulsion."

He made these other points against the measure: 1. It would have "failed completely" to prevent or shorten "the strikes which so seriously have damaged our economy these last few months."

2. "Strikes against private employers cannot be ended by legislative decree * * *. They must be considered in the light of inflationary pressures, of problems of full employment, of economic security."

3. The bill is a "piecemeal" measure which "strikes at symptoms and ignores underlying causes."

Union labor and its backers exulted in the veto. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said in a statement:

ELKS JUBILEE OPENS FRIDAY

Convention Celebration
Here Will Last For Three Days

Final preparations for the annual Upper Peninsula Elks convention and the golden jubilee celebration of Escanaba Lodge 354, B. P. O. E., which opens here Friday, June 14, are virtually complete and more than 300 out-of-town Elks, representing practically every lodge in northern Michigan are expected to take part in the three day gathering.

Reservations from 150 out-of-town Elks have already been received.

The president of the Michigan Elks Association, Albert C. Lyon of Flint Lodge No. 222, will be the principal speaker at the convention banquet on Sunday at St. Joseph's hall.

Lyon is a veteran of World War in which he enlisted as a private and rose to the rank of first lieutenant in the field artillery. He was educated at Michigan State College and held various chairs in the Elks until he became Exalted Ruler. Later he served as Esquire for 16 years until he again became Exalted Ruler. He is now serving as trustee. He was named chairman of the Elks War Commission for the state association in 1941-42 and served the following year as vice-president of the eastern district of Michigan.

The Escanaba lodge was organized on Oct. 7, 1896, when 31 local citizens were granted an Elks charter. The lodge now has 576 members, 62 of whom have been affiliated for 25 years or more.

Registration for the convention and jubilee celebration will begin Friday morning.

Bill To Wine Out NLRB Is Rejected

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The House turned back efforts today to wipe out the National Labor Relations Board, and then voted a $81,136,500,238 appropriation for operation of the labor department and Federal Security Agency in the year beginning July 1.

However, the House, on a 202 to 134 roll call vote, adopted an amendment by Rep. Elliott (D-Calif.), removing fruit and vegetable packing workers and farm laborers from NLRB's jurisdiction.

The bill also embodies a ban against use of any funds for payment of salaries to government workers belonging to unions claiming the right to strike against the government.

Computing Machine To Speed Research

Pasadena, Calif.—A new desk-sized electric computing machine, designed to speed mathematical equation solutions in physical and chemical research, will cut tedious hours of work to minutes. It has been reported to the American Institute of Physics by Clifford E. Berry, Doyle E. Wilcox, Sigmund M. Rock and H. W. Washburn of the Consolidated Engineering Corporation here.

The new calculator, designed during the war, will speed research and development in such diverse fields as the analysis of complex organic petroleum products, aircraft design, and electric circuit analysis.

The computer handles especially what is known to the mathematician as linear simultaneous algebraic equations. In spite of the impressive name, these are nothing but a more lengthy cousin of the elementary high-school variety of algebraic equations.

The main objective of the collection is to secure contributions for the purchase of food for the suffering men, women and children of the war-devastated lands.

Mr. Zerbel said yesterday that Escanaba's three banks have consented to accept cash contributions from the public. Donations can be made by mailing of checks or personal delivery of the money to the banks.

ment the president displayed "a high standard of statesmanship and courage," Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) was "immensely pleased."

But from Rep. Case (R-S. D.), from whom the bill took its name, came this statement:

"Reluctantly I am forced to think the president wants no legislation of a constructive nature. He wants absolute power or he wants Congress in a position where he can scold it."

Angry, but undismayed, the bill's backers promptly began mapping strategy for a new attempt to put similar legislation on the statute books.

These legislators, who have been in control on most major issues recently, made it clear privately that they were not impressed with Mr. Truman's recommendation for a long-range study before enacting a permanent measure.

Spain Is Snubbed
In U. N. Invitations
New York, June 11 (AP)—The United Nations economic and social council today expressed its disapproval of Franco Spain by leaving the Spanish government off a list of nations invited to attend the World Health Conference here June 19.

The rebuke was made more pointed by the fact that seven countries, which formerly were enemies to members of the United Nations, were invited to attend. The former enemy countries were Italy, Austria, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Finland and Siam.

The council itself did not vote directly on the question of omitting Spain but it approved the countries recommended by a committee, which had voted to exclude Germany, Japan and Spain from the conference.

the Communist building and hurling missiles at police and troops. The fighting mushroomed into full-scale battle two hours later when the mob began its attempts to burn the building.

Buildings Under Fire

Associated Press photographer Walter Green, in a telephoned eye-witness account, said that when the crowd was cleared to some extent from the streets, they took to the buildings and continued "firing all around us." Green was in the basement of the police building, used for headquarters by U. S. military police, and said the building was "under heavy fire."

When the fighting began, the crowd temporarily captured four armored cars from the police and troops, who recovered them only when reinforcements were brought up. Several police were injured in the battle. Green, watching from the police building, saw 15 to 20 people killed by gunfire. Streetscars and trucks halted by the crowd effectively blocked off Via Medina during the fighting.

Whipped to action by Socialist Minister of Interior Giuseppe Romita, the huge crowd in Rome, bearing belligerent banners and shouting imprecations against the monarchy, surged from a mass meeting in Piazza del Popolo to the Viminale palace, government headquarters.

Later tonight Royalist spokesmen quoted Umberto as having told De Gasperi, with whom he conferred twice today, that he would "do anything for the pacification of the people," but that he must "make his own decisions about yielding the throne."

Red Buck Is Ideal Boy Scout Camp In Hiawatha Forest

Camp Red Buck, the Boy Scout Camp of the Red Buck District, is one of the most ideally situated Scout camps, located for the true purpose of carrying on Scouting in an atmosphere of natural surroundings.

The campsite is located among the virgin timber of the Hiawatha Forest, surrounded by three lakes, easily accessible from all sides, they abound with natural facilities for swimming and boating, and a lure to these that enjoy fishing.

Camp Red Buck is 14 miles southeast of Munising on Forest Highway 13, and about two miles south.

Camping is done at Red Buck with tents, which makes the Scouting experiences more real, in that true Scouting is getting in the out of doors and enjoying the things which Mother Nature has provided. This year at Red Buck an intensive program of Scouting has been planned.

The program will include such activities as self preservation, life saving, practically all forms of aquatic, overnight hikes, compass work, advancement, handicraft, and many more activities, which is felt that the Scouts will enjoy. Scout camps should not necessarily be measured on the success of the advancement program alone, but on the true experiences and lasting memories which a Scout has.

This year a five man staff has been obtained, well qualified for the responsible positions they are to hold namely, Wallace Cameron, waterfront and program, Clarence Zerbel, Escanaba, advancement and hiking; Odin Grimness, Munising, assistant waterfront director; S. N. Bradford, Escanaba, director; Don Foy, Manistique, bugler. Capable chefs have been obtained from Nahma, Mr. and Mrs. Vital Herbert, who have been highly recommended for the position, having had experience in this field.

In addition to the regular program of Scouting, an intensified program in handicraft is underway, which will include such activities as; leatherwork, craft strip weaving, woodcarving, metal work, cork work, moccasin making, and others of interest. Scouts are urged to take part in this program if possible.

Great experiences await those who attend Red Buck Scout Camp. 228 registrations are in so far, with the first period from June 30th to July 6th, nearly filled; second, third, and fourth, filled, and a few in the fifth period. Periods are six days, beginning June 30th.

SIGLER FACES SLANDER SUIT FOR $200,000

was true, "none of them is fit to be governor."

William J. Cody, diminutive Democratic primary candidate, was the only spokesman of his party to appear at the luncheon where he demanded that the state remove itself from the liquor business.

Liquor and politics inevitably produce corruption, he charged, and added that the best whisky in Michigan is sold "through the back door" rather than "over the counter" of the state's liquor stores.

Anderson, in his radio appeal for Sigler's nomination, said the special prosecutor was on the trail of "huge gambling bribes and pay-offs to police and other governmental officials on a state-wide basis" when his foes secured his ouster.

Anderson said, as a result, the grand jury has only "scratched the surface" of graft and corruption in Michigan.

Brown also resorted to barbed ridicule, in his microphone address, declaring that his Republican opponents selected their own platforms.

"One (Kelly) took for his theme song the bonus for veterans," he said. "Another (Jeffries) proposed a raid on state revenues to fatten coffers of the cities. Still another (Sigler) came dashing up crusader fashion offering to clear the state of all graft and corruption * * *."

For himself, Brown said, he was forced to run on his record.

"I stand squarely on it," he added.

Highlights of the activities in camps of the various candidates included:

BROWN
Brown said tonight over WJR, Detroit, that, if elected governor, he does not plan to throw the present liquor control commission "in the ashcan and turn the business over to the distillers and brewers."

"I do not altogether approve of all the liquor commission has done or has not done," he said. "The people voted the present plan into the constitution of the state and no candidate for governor can promise much or deliver much until the people speak."

KELLY
Collusion on the part of the incumbent state officials in "concealing the rapidly mounting sales tax surplus" was charged tonight by candidate Kelly.

As a result, he said in an address over Radio Station WJR, financial hardships have been worked upon World War II veterans.

City Dump Near South Park Closed For Public's Use

Because children have been setting fire to rubbish there and because residents have been careless in unloading and strewing refuse about the area, the city is closing the dumping ground near the South park to the public for the summer. A number of complaints have been received by residents nearby about the odor arising from fires indiscriminately set by youngsters in the dumping area.

Escanabans who haul their own refuse are asked to use the city's dumping ground located about four miles from the city limits on the Old State Road.

Final collections in the city's annual spring clean-up were completed this week, Joe Holmes, superintendent of the public works department, reported.

Cash For Unused Furloughs Voted By House, 379-0

Washington, June 11 (AP)—The House membership clambered en masse today on the GI bandwagon, voting 379 to 0 to pay enlisted service personnel cash for unused furlough time.

The action, if sustained by the senate, will put all service men and women on the same basis with respect to furlough pay. Officers already receive it under an old law.

rural and urban schools, municipalities and citizens of Michigan.

SIGLER
Gambling bribes and police pay-offs on a state-wide scale were under grand jury investigation until Kim Sigler was removed as a special prosecutor, the prosecuting attorney of Ingham county said tonight.

Prosecutor Victor Anderson, speaking over Radio Station WXYZ in behalf of Sigler's candidacy for governor, charged that powerful interests secured Sigler's ouster as special prosecutor to "ambush" the investigation.

EVANS OUTLINES AIRPORT PLANS

Passage Of Amendment Urged To Legalize Airport Funds

"Most cities and counties are including in their planning programs the establishment of an airport or seaplane base," Col. Floyd Evans, Lansing, state director of aeronautics, said yesterday noon at a luncheon meeting of the local planning institute in Escanaba.

Speaking on the subject of "Future Plan of Development of Aeronautics for the Upper Peninsula," Col. Evans said that public interest is very high in aviation. He said that he favored the President's recommendation for a unified command and to place the air force on a par with ground and naval forces.

A total of nearly six million persons in the United States want to learn to pilot aircraft, yet there are only 33,000 privately owned airplanes in the country, and manufacturers expect that nearly 40,000 private type aircraft will be manufactured this year.

"The big question is where all this business is to be conducted on the relatively few airports existing in the United States today," the speaker said.

More Small Fields
The most urgent need is the smaller type of airport to serve private flyers, flying schools and commercial air services, for during the past five years there has been a decline in airports of this type. There are approximately 12,000 towns and cities in the country without airports, and many existing today are "of very doubtful nature as to safe use."

"During the past ten years there has been but a 70% increase in the number of airports while there has been a 100% increase in aviation activity. Airplanes cannot be a method of transportation of maximum utility until they can be used in everyday life, and this will be possible only when there is an airport at every community where an individual may want to visit for business or pleasure, using air transportation. Just as the good highways made the automobile, buses and trucks an everyday convenience, so will opening up new airports at all communities make the airplane a useful means of transportation."

"Realizing that the lack of airports is the bottleneck of the growth and development of aeronautics in general, all aviation interested persons and organizations have worked diligently in an effort to get Congress to enact the necessary legislation which would appropriate federal funds for the development of an airways system in the United States. The recent enactment of the Federal Airport Aid Bill, will make it possible to inaugurate such a program. Under this bill $500,000,000 has been appropriated to be spent over a seven year period beginning July 1, 1946.

Financing Plan

"We now have in escrow $1,000,000 of state funds appropriated by the last session of the State Legislature, which sum is to be used on a matching basis with the Federal Government and political subdivisions of the State. The Department of Aeronautics has ruled that the proportionate amount the State will allocate will be on the basis of $3.00 for every $2.00 the political subdivision appropriates. These two together will be used to match on a fifty basis Federal Funds. The Federal appropriation of $500,000,000 is to be allocated on the basis of 75% of same, apportioned on the basis of 1/2 in proportion to the total population and 1/2 in proportion which its area bears to the total area of all states. The balance, or 25%, of the net appropriation will constitute a discretionary fund to be allocated by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics Administration in a manner he deems most appropriate for carrying out the National Airport Plan, regardless of the state in which the projects are located.

"One of the first steps to be made by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, in accordance with the Federal Aid Bill, is to develop a national plan. This plan will be a compilation of the forty-eight state plans. Wherever there is a state aeronautics department in the State that will be the department to whom the C.A.A. will look for advice on the logical state plan. We now have prepared our state plan and are awaiting approval of same from the C.A.A. It will be noted that there will be at the end of our initial five year program, 242 land type airports and 44 seaplane bases, if the plan as contemplated is carried through to completion.

"The Upper Peninsula has, I believe, fared very well in our original plan of development, there being 38 Class I fields contemplated, 6 Class II, namely at St. Ignace, Newberry, Manistique, Munising, Crystal Falls, L'Anse, and Ontonagon. There will be 8

Class III at the following locations: Raco, Marquette, Ironwood, Escanaba, Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton County, Menominee, Iron Mountain.

The one existing Class IV field at Kinross, in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie, will, of course, remain in existence. It is contemplated that this field will soon be put into use as the northern terminal of the Pennsylvania Central Airlines who are extending their service into the Upper Peninsula.

Favors Amendment

"We now have on our calendar about all of the projects we can logically handle during the next twelve months. It is hoped that every city and county, when making their plans for future development, will include as one of the important projects, an airport, as we feel that in the Upper Peninsula the airplane is going to play a very important part in the development of this country. There are going to be more and more aerial tourists, more and more families are going to remain in this country during the summer months for longer periods of time, as the result of fast and convenient air transportation. The head of the family will probably utilize the airplane to travel back and forth for weekends from his place of business.

"Unless the Federal authorities use good judgement on requirements on plans and specifications, it may prove to be more economical to develop small Class I fields without federal aid rather than to spend the funds necessary for the development of engineering plans. We do know of instances where the development of plans and specifications on the small type of field has cost far more than the actual construction work would cost were it done in a reasonable manner and without the red tape attached as required under the federal system," Evans said.

In his concluding remarks Col. Evans pointed out that at the present time the department of aeronautics cannot legally spend a single dollar on construction of airports, nor can any political subdivision of the state. This is the result of a constitutional limitation.

The state constitution prohibits the state from spending state funds for any internal improvements other than the development of public roads, drainage systems, control of floods, etc. The last special session of the legislature authorized the voters to decide at the polls in November whether airports should be included in the building up public interest in this important issue.

KIWANIS WEEK IS OBSERVED

Reverend Ward Attends Annual Convention In Atlantic City

Kiwanis International announced yesterday that its 160,000 members throughout the United States and Canada purchased and sold war bonds valued at more than $2,449,000,000 during World War II.

In a special message to clubs observing All Kiwanis Week, June 9 to 15, Hamilton Holt, Macon, Ga., prominent southern industrialist and president of Kiwanis International, also revealed that Kiwanians collected 3,144,245 tons of scrap, donated 218,212 pints of blood and obtained additional blood donors numbering 488,736.

All Kiwanis Week, observed

each year at the time of the Kiwanis International convention, will give members unable to attend the 1946 meeting this week at Atlantic City, N. J., an opportunity to hold special fellowship sessions and review their club's accomplishments. Rev. James G. Ward of Escanaba is attending the Atlantic City meeting.

Several thousand business and professional leaders from all sections of the United States and Canada have indicated they will be on hand for Kiwanis International's 1946 Victory Convention, breaking previous attendance records.

The speaking program will feature, among others, General Omar N. Bradley, administrator of Veterans Affairs, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, Rep. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut, William K. Jackson, recently elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Drew Pearson, newspaper columnist and radio commentator, and Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

Holt in his message said that Kiwanians took special interest in the health, welfare and morale of servicemen during the war. Kiwanians contacted 6,583,000 members of the armed forces, either by letter or in person, he stated. While the work of Kiwanis with youth groups and the underprivileged continues on a greater scale than ever before, Kiwanians are making significant contributions in the field of public affairs, his message revealed.

"All over the United States and Canada," Holt declared, "our members realize that we must give earnest and relentless attention to the basic problems which so vitally affect us. We are convinced that these problems, if they are solved at all, must be solved by the rank and file citizenry of the world."

"We of the United States and Canada cannot do the job alone," continued Holt, "but 160,000 unselfish business and professional men can make a mighty effort. Our program is clear cut. It stresses the extreme importance of basic human values in all considerations as the one hope for permanent peace, unity and opportunity."

Sault Was Vital Spot

FEARs that the Sault locks would be the target of enemy attack during the war were not exaggerated after all.

It is now revealed that the Nazis rehearsed in Norway for a bombing attack upon the vital ship canal, through which passed almost 90 per cent of the nation's iron ore supply. Information concerning the Nazi plans were furnished to the British Intelligence Service by Norwegian agents, who were cooperating with the Allies.

This explains why such elaborate measures were taken for the defense of the Sault locks. At one time, about 20,000 troops were stationed there. Barrage balloons were used in considerable number, and the army built large airports at Kinross and Raco for possible use by interceptor planes.

As an extra precaution, the government expended more than eleven million dollars for the Escanaba ore dock project, which was designed to provide an alternate route for the shipment of iron ore from the Minnesota ranges in the event of the destruction of the Sault locks. The project was abandoned when military authorities decided the danger of enemy attack on the Sault was no longer present.

Many things do not appear to make sense in wartime. Wars are costly because measures must be taken to meet every possible emergency. This explains much of the over-construction, over-production and over-supply we witnessed during the war.

Safety Aids in Boating

THE drowning Sunday evening of a young war veteran in Bay de Noc accentuates the obvious need for more general use of safety aids in boating and fishing.

All boats, including rowboats and canoes, should be equipped with life preservers of adequate standards if the annual death toll due to drownings is to be materially reduced. Such safety aids are required by Coast Guard regulations for boats 16 feet and larger but they are not required for small boats, such as rowboats.

The ability to swim is not in itself a guarantee against drowning, even though it is obvious that drowning tolls can be sharply reduced if more people learned to swim. In the case of the tragic accident Sunday night, the victim was a good swimmer. The combination of heavy seas and heavy clothing, however, constituted odds too great even for an experienced swimmer. The only safeguard against drowning in such cases is the availability of a life preserver of sufficient buoyancy to keep the victim afloat until he can be rescued.

The necessity of providing life preservers in boats of 16 feet and larger is recognized by public laws, but to a considerable degree it is even more essential to have such safety aids available for the smaller boats, particularly rowboats and canoes. These are the boats more susceptible to overturning in rough weather and the boats that are far more difficult to control in heavy seas. Moreover, the boats generally are manned by experienced fishermen. Rowboats, particularly those made available for rental to sports fishermen, are all too frequently used by men and women who are unfamiliar with the technique of boating and who fail to recognize the dangers of the sea.

Times Have Changed

REPORTS from upper or southern end of Lake Michigan are that lake levels are at the highest in 16 years. Lake frontage in northern Illinois is being washed away, and substantial damage from erosion is feared both in Chicago and Milwaukee.

For some time there have been no complaints that Chicago is robbing the Great Lakes of too much water. The flow of water up the Chicago river averages 4,100 feet per second, and on occasion it has reached 10,000 feet. That is about the amount per second that the Ogoki diversion, on the north shore of Lake Superior, is sending through Lake Nipigon into the northernmost of the Great Lakes, and this diversion in large part accounts for the high water in the entire Great Lakes system.

Chicago and Illinois congressmen and senators would like to see the present arrangement with Canada continued, in the event the St. Lawrence waterway materializes. This agreement is that if any diversion of water from the Great Lakes system, greater in amount than diversions permitted in either the United States or Canada on January 1, 1940, is authorized, the government of such country agrees to give immediate consideration to any representations which the other government may make.

In the event that a satisfactory agreement cannot be reached promptly, the matter is to be submitted to an arbitral tribunal, which shall be empowered to direct such compensatory or remedial measures as it may deem just and equitable.

That is fair enough, and it illustrates the pleasant relations prevailing between the sister nations. At the present time the flowage at the Chicago outlet is subject to the combined control of the Secretary of War and the U. S. Supreme Court.

One-Man Industries

SPEAKING at the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday, Harlow O. Whittemore of the University of Michigan expressed his opinion that much good would result if communities would give more real encouragement to small industries.

He mentioned in particular the so-called one-man industries, which have been launched by individuals with ideas for new products and services. Too often, citizens are prone to allow the man with an idea to struggle by himself. Oftentimes, a little advice and encouragement from local business leaders could be the difference between success and failure.

America's industrial history is filled with stories of large corporations who had their origin in an alley shop. Henry Ford got his start in that way, and there are many others. Men with new ideas are always in the minority, but oftentimes they are the men who do things and count in a community.

States Save Forests

ACTIVE measures to preserve dwindling forest resources now being undertaken by several states.

Ohio is creating two new state forests, financed by $250,000 in state funds. Connecticut forest preservation efforts are coordinated in a statewide system providing supervision of privately-owned as well as public timberland. Foresters from Maine, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Connecticut are now cooperating in a drive toward more intensive action on forest conservation problems.

Their organization, the Conference of New England Forestry officials, is emphasizing the need for increased fire protection, using aircraft and radio to the fullest extent on a regional basis. Rigorous control of forest pests, improved forest taxation and cutting practices are also being stressed.

The value of forests to the local and national economy is generally recognized. In the Upper Peninsula, for instance, we have both national and state forests, embracing millions of acres that were left denuded by the lumbermen's axe. Slowly but surely, these idle lands are being reforested, so that in the future decades they will once again sustain wood-working industries and also provide game, scenery and outdoor recreation for the building of the region's promising tourist business.

Building Boom

ANATIONALLY-KNOWN brewery has failed to obtain priorities to construct a new plant in New Jersey, which seems right and proper in view of the housing shortage. But elsewhere in New Jersey two large and elegant new race tracks are under construction.

Doubtless the tracks' owners would be reluctant to reveal what strings they pulled to get building material at this time. But perhaps they will be good enough to set aside a few vacant corners and a little fresh straw for some of the veterans and their families who are still frantically searching for a permanent abode.

WAGES UP, PRODUCTION DOWN

(Detroit News)

Michigan iron ore resources continue to supply about 17 per cent of the nation's domestic requirements, and while the unusual war demands of the last few years dug deeply into our reserves the industry is still going strong.

Peak war production brought the output well over the 16,000,000-ton mark in 1942 as compared with a prewar average of 12,000,000 tons a year. The 1945 production was below normal, 11,760,000 tons. There are 40 active mines in operation, the same as in 1939, but the 1945 survey reveals a rather interesting fact as far as the miners are concerned.

In 1939, 5,818 miners were employed; 6,405 in 1945. The average daily wage six years ago was $7.07; in 1945 this hit $10.51. The daily man-production in 1939 was 6.62 tons of ore; in 1945, 6.43 tons. So, while wages have advanced over 48 per cent in six years, production has shown a slight decrease.

Thus in the iron ore industry, as in many others, increased wages do not mean increased production, but rather increased cost to the public of articles requiring iron ore products in their manufacture.

Give them a chance, says a writer, and the foreign countries will get on their feet. Or ours?

People who jump at conclusions scare the best ones away.

HANDBOOK OF PRACTICAL ENGLISH

(Scrapbook Item)

Q. So many points of usage are not covered by our textbooks! For instance, my class wants to know the correct form in such cases as this: Mary is a friend of (Henry's?) Will you please give us one of your common-sense discussions?—Mrs. A. W.

Answer: We should always keep in mind that English rules are made by good usage, and not by the grammar books. Since modern English was developed as a literary language before the invention of the Washington—Union bosses compete for power and the public suffers. The threatened AFL Maritime walkout is a perfect example.

The bosses compete not only for power but in ideological warfare. Again the Maritime unions are a good example. Harry Landberg of the AFL Sailors union of the Pacific denounces the CIO Maritime leaders as Communists. They call him a Trotskyist. This ideological warfare is even more bitter than the struggle for power. It has something of the ferocity of a religious war.

It is counter to reason. It is counter not merely to the public interest but to the interest of the seamen themselves. The jobs of American seamen are precarious at best. American shipowners recently issued a blast declaring that acceptance "of staggering wage increases along with reduced working hours designed solely to produce added overtime pay" would place the U. S. Merchant Marine in "an impossible competitive position." Certainly the high pay of American seamen was one reason our merchant marine dwindled between the two wars.

Competition on the seas was fierce. The crews of some nations worked for half the wages paid our seamen out of government subsidies. Their quarters and food would never have been accepted by Americans. Behind this competition was the ever-present fear of unemployment. That same fear is behind the dispute in coal and on the railroads. Sweeping changes in technology threaten millions of jobs.

Business jumps at every opportunity to cut down wage costs because that seems to mean more profits. The answer of union leaders is to try to hold each job as a vested right. This explains "feather bedding" and similar make-work practices.

When the two points of view hit head on, there is a strike. That means violence and disruption and a growing conviction that the only possibility of settlement lies in the arbitrary use of force.

The reasonable way is the way of a conference now going on in Seattle. Called by the international labor office, the conference is trying to get international agreement on a minimum wage for seamen everywhere of 16 British pounds—about $64. Such an agreement is a start at ending the cutthroat competition of the past. Delegates from 40 countries are discussing the problems of seafaring men.

A minimum of $64 a month would not, of course, solve the problem of American shipowners. The average monthly wage of American seamen is $127. If the Maritime unions get anything like their present demands, the possibility of U. S. competition on the high seas will be slim.

The net result of the Bridges-Curran-Lundberg tactics may be wholesale unemployment on the waterfront. That might serve the political objectives of the extreme left. Certainly it would make no economic sense.

The U. S. Maritime unions are demanding larger crews so that a shorter work day would be possible. Yet those who look at it objectively say the present crew system is a carryover from the past, with all the inefficiencies of the past. If union and management were to get together amicably, great changes in the direction of efficiency would be brought about. With increased efficiency, it would be possible to pay much higher wages.

But greater efficiency would mean fewer jobs. Therefore it is hard to imagine the union agreeing to such rational changes.

We talk glibly about planning our economy. We take tentative steps in that direction. But thus far we have made little progress in meeting the challenge of technological unemployment. We cannot ignore that challenge. Prof. Seymour E. Harris of Harvard said the other day that in 1941, 60,000,000 workers did the work it would have taken 150,000,000 to do back in 1900. By 1980, 30,000,000 will do the work of 60,000,000. The advance of the machine is a threat and a promise that mankind has steadily evaded.

The conference in Seattle is the sort of beginning we must make. A shortened work week is imperative. But it should not have to come through strikes and violence that can do infinite damage at this moment in history.

terrifying tangle of barbed wire called grammar (Shakespeare and his contemporaries never heard of English grammar), the function of the grammar book is to state what the language IS, and not what it shall be.

Let us, therefore, turn to logic rather than to the Shrdiluvian entanglements of grammar.

Friendship is reciprocal. If Mary and Henry are friends, each is the other's friend. Obviously, Mary's feeling of friendliness for Henry is fostered by his friendship for her.

Hence, to say that "Mary is a friend of Henry," implies that the friendliness is on Mary's side only. But if we say that Mary is a friend of Henry's, we strongly imply that the feeling of friendship is mutual . . . they are each other's friends.

Thus it is that in expressing reciprocal esteem, we invariably use the possessive pronouns, thus:

I am a friend of hers (not "her").
She is a friend of mine (not "me").
He is a friend of yours (not "you").
You are a friend of theirs (not "them").

Likewise, the idea of reciprocity is expressed by means of the possessive in such constructions as: They shook each other's hands; they shared each other's books; the children enjoyed one another's playthings. Note that when the non-possessive form is employed, reciprocity is not suggested: He is a friend of labor; he is a lover of the dog; he is a friend of religion.

SUNKEN TREASURE—News reports are that a new instrument has been invented which can detect accurately the position of any metal object and lead searchers—or explosives if it's wartime—directly to the object. It is reported that military authorities agree that this new instrument could be used for locating sunken treasure.

Almost any day now we expect to hear that Capt. Roen of Sturgeon Bay, or Capt. McDonald of Chicago, or some other of the more adventurous spirits of the Great Lakes area, are setting out an expedition to discover sunken treasure on Lake Michigan. For there is supposed to be—you will note the reservation with which this is written—treasure lost in ship sinkings not more than 50 miles from Escanaba.

Just to whet your appetite for adventure, the Department of Commerce reports that more than $15,000,000 in coin and goods is at the bottom of the Great Lakes as the result of ship disasters.

IT'S A MYSTERY—So get out your diving suit and rowboat and start searching, for here are some tips on where to find enough wealth to keep you from spending your old age in the poor house.

Lakeland Yachting reports that the biggest haul (if you can find it) would be at Poverty Island, which is located in Delta county between Big Summer and St. Martin islands off the tip of the Garden Peninsula. Probably the most valuable cargo ever lost on the lakes went down at Poverty Island—gold bullion in the vessel's safe is authoritatively stated to be worth $4,500,000.

This is a tidy sum for any treasure hunter to collect in cold, wet cash. But here is the mystery: The name of the vessel is unknown and the reason why a ship would be carrying such a large amount of gold. Perhaps it was a gold shipment from the western states on its way to Buffalo. But there is the name of the ship: it was shrouded in mystery, together with the year of the sinking.

LESSER CASH—That the Poverty Island area was a death trap for ships in the early days is certain. The rotting hulks on reefs and islands in that vicinity are numerous.

You may not want to spend your time looking for a sunken treasure which may be a little too mysterious to suit your taste. But there is a strong box with $100,000 in cash in it at the bottom of the Straits of Mackinac a little farther east. This strong box, together with other valuable cargo, was aboard the steamer Westmoreland which sank in the Straits during a storm.

Another ship's safe, contents unknown, is reported to lie at the bottom off the village of Alaska, Wis., between Kewaunee and Algonquin. John Hromas of Sturgeon Bay reports that he and another man saw the safe but were unable to mark the spot at the time and have been unable to discover its since.

BURIED ON ISLAND?—Back about 50 years ago $60,000 in cash was withdrawn from a bank in Marinette, without benefit of the proper withdrawal slip. The crooks who engineered the withdrawal took their loot and set

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

Merle Wyatt of Gladstone was brought to St. Francis hospital at noon yesterday in a serious condition, as the result of injuries received when he lost control of his car on the Flat Rock road to Gladstone Monday afternoon, hit a culvert, and rolled into a field.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Saxon, 331 North 11th street, are the parents of a daughter, born Tuesday at St. Francis hospital.

Escanaba students at Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., who have returned to their homes here for the summer vacation include Melba Anderson, Esther Bergman, Harry Henkin, Vincent Bergman, Arthur Olson, Willard Isaacson, Ralph Sundquist and Roald Schou.

Ethel Mary Dufour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dufour, who was thirteen years old Monday, entertained sixteen guests at her home, 409 South 13th street, at a delightful party arranged in honor of the day.

20 Years Ago—1926
Mrs. Margaret Lemmer left last night for South Bend, Ind., where she will attend the graduation exercises at Notre Dame university where her son, Victor, is a member of the class of 1926.

George E. Harvey, Delta county clerk, is scheduled to read a paper on "Reapportionment of Primary School Funds" at the annual convention of Michigan county clerks, which will be held in Menominee on June 15-16.

Richard Heide of Gladstone had a narrow escape from injury Thursday night when his car turned turtle in the ditch a short distance south of the Perkins gas station.

U. G. "Sport" Hermann, Chicago theatrical magnate, and William Hale Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, are en route by boat to Rock Island, where they will be guests of C. H. Thorderson at his summer home.

sail on Green Bay, probably heading for the Door County peninsula.

The above is on record. What happened after the thieves and their loot set sail in a small skiff is a mystery. They were landlubbers and when a blow came up that night they got into plenty of trouble. Their bodies were found on the shore at Chambers Island and near Fish Creek—but the $60,000 in gold and silver has never been seen again.

Whether the treasure is at the bottom of the bay is not known. For it may be possible that the men took the loot ashore and buried it in a secret spot on Chambers Island, then set sail for the mainland to meet their doom, with the location of the loot awaiting a diligent search of "treasure island."

BOTTLES OF RUM—Should you decide to take a fling at treasure hunting, and want to sing of "a bottle of rum" with enthusiasm, you might first start finding some of the hard liquor lost in ship's disasters on the lakes many years ago. There's enough to keep your party in grog for quite a spell.

You might start your search off South Manitou, where 350 hogheads of prime whisky went down with the propeller Templeton. And there's 300 "barls" of melow brew at the bottom in the St. Clair river near Detroit, lost there in the sinking of the old hooker Lexington of Algonac, it is reported by Lakeland Yachting.

BIGGER GAME—Fortified with the contents of these hogheads

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Why are north winds generally dry?

A. Because they come from colder regions, and being warmed by the heat of our climate, absorb moisture from everything they touch in consequence of which they are generally dry.

Q. When was the Mediterranean fruit fly first discovered in North America?

A. The long feared pest was discovered at Orlando, Florida, on April 6, 1929. It has not been determined how it gained entrance, although it was known that since the passage of the Federal Plant Quarantine Act of 1912, plant inspectors at maritime ports of entrance had intercepted them several times. The threat of this pest to American horticulturists was met by Florida and the Federal government. Steps were taken to determine the extent of its spread, to destroy all fruit in infested and surrounding orchards, and to spray the trees with an attractive poison bait as a substitute for the natural food thus removed.

Q. We wish to utilize our large back and side yard by planting a vegetable garden to help out our food supply for the summer and next winter. Have you a booklet that will help us in our planning?

A. "Vegetable Gardens," a booklet that tells about the planting and cultivation of vegetables in small areas, can be ordered from Service Bureau, 1217 Thirteenth St., Washington, 5, D. C., for 10 cents in coin or stamps.

Q. Was Joe Jeannette ever a world boxing champion?

A. No; but he was rated one of the best heavyweights of his time.

Between 1380 and 1900, the crown of Norway was joined first with that of Denmark and then with Sweden.

The first legal execution by electricity is said to have been that of William Kemmler at Sing Sing prison, Aug. 6, 1890.

take a crack at "big time" treasure hunting. Off Whitfish Point in Lake Superior is the wreck of the steamer Penabic, which sank in 1865 with a cargo of copper and pig iron valued at $200,000. Others have tried it before, however, and recovered only $7,000 worth of metal.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Seldom has a senate committee been so loath to put its name to a piece of legislation as the Senate Banking and Currency Committee which finished sabotaging the price-control bill last week. About all that was left of the bill was its name.

When it came to signing it, New York's Senator Wagner, chairman of the Banking and Currency committee, flatly refused. He pointed out, in a closed-door session, that he had opposed the emasculating amendments and would submit his own minority report.

Senator Taft, who did more than almost anyone to tear the bill to pieces, also hesitated. He said he had his own bill which he wanted to introduce.

Finally someone proposed that the senators' names be signed in a circle, so the public could not tell who signed first.

Note—Finally, Senator Barkley agreed to report the gutted OPA bill to the senate, but accompanied by a stinging criticism of the way the OPA had been virtually destroyed.

—NEW SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY?—

Inside fact is that all Truman's strongest cabinet members—including Jimmy Byrnes, Judge Vinson and Bob Hannegan—were opposed to John Snyder's appointment as Secretary of the Treasury, though they were given no chance to express themselves.

Inside fact also is that John Snyder himself was the strongest advocate of Fred Vinson's appointment as chief justice. Snyder kept urging Truman to promote Vinson out of the treasury department to the supreme court. There was no question as to what was in the back of Snyder's mind. He wanted Vinson's treasury job for himself.

Secretary of the Treasury Vinson also has had various brushes with Snyder. One came shortly after V-J day, when Snyder wrote 40-page memo recommending that all war controls be dropped. By accident, Vinson, who knew from experience as economic stabilizer and war mobilizer what decontrol meant, discovered the Snyder memo and rushed over to the White House.

"Are you fellows crazy?" he asked. He finally managed to stop Snyder's proposed action.

However, Snyder did drop the controls on construction, and then had to restore them later; on woolen goods, which is one reason for veterans' clothing shortage; on nylons, which is one reason for the nylon shortage.

One of John's worst blunders was to promise a price increase to the steel industry without first getting a commitment that industry would raise wages. This one moment of "Snyderizing" prolonged the steel strike for several weeks and cost the nations millions.

—KKK PROBE?—

It has been a closely guarded secret, but the House Un-American Committee has actually voted not to investigate the Ku Klux Klan.

The vote was taken shortly after Congressman Thomas D'Alesandro, Jr., of Baltimore had demanded an investigation, and three days after Republican Representative Gerald Landis of Indiana had given Dixie committee members apoplexy by telling reporters that the KKK would be investigated.

At the next committee meeting, Chairman John S. Wood of Georgia brought up the Klan and asked the committee what it wanted to do.

Mississippi's rootin'-tootin' John Rankin immediately put his foot down against any real probe of the Klan.

"There's no sense sending anyone down to Georgia to investigate the Klan," Rankin insisted. "If you want to know about the Klan the thing to do is to call the Grand Kleeagle up here to Washington and have him appear before the committee."

To this liberal representative John Murdock of Arizona was opposed. Too often, he knew, the committee had served as a sounding board to give un-American witnesses extra publicity.

"Let's not bring anyone up from Atlanta to use this committee as a public platform," Murdock argued. "We've seen in the past how various opportunists like to appear before this committee because it gives them a chance to get a million dollars worth of free publicity and promotion. I'm against that sort of a show."

Representative J. Will Robinson of Utah, who dislikes his assignment so much that he voted against additional funds for the un-American committee, seconded Murdock. He thought the KKK should be probed on the spot in Georgia.

Rankin, seeing that he could not get away with providing a platform for the Klan, then made this remarkable statement.

"After all," he said, "the Klan is a completely American institution, and its members are Americans. That's not what this committee was set up to study. Our job is to investigate foreign isms and alien organizations."

This amazing statement went unchallenged. The decent members of the committee knew it was hopeless to argue.

Chairman Wood of Georgia then called for a voice vote, and it was decided that the Klan will not be investigated.

Favoring a thorough investigation were Robinson and Murdock. Landis of Indiana neither spoke on the subject nor registered any opposition to dropping the probe. His vote might have swung the balance. Wood of Georgia, Rankin of Mississippi, and J. Hardin Peterson of Florida were dead set against the investigation. Not present were Democrat Herbert Bonner of North Carolina and Republican J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey.

FAYETTE PARK IS CONSIDERED

John I. Rogers Visits Proposed Site In Further Study

Further consideration of all factors in connection with the location of state parks will be necessary before the Michigan conservation commission will be asked to decide whether it will recommend Fayette as the location for a state park site, John I. Rogers, Lansing, assistant chief of the parks and recreation division, department of conservation, said here yesterday.

Desirability of the Fayette location as a state park has been directed to the attention of the state in resolutions adopted by the Delta county board of supervisors, Escanaba service and civic organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, the Lake Michigan Yachting Association and others.

Fayette is located 18 miles south of the intersection with US-2 on the Garden Peninsula in Delta county. There is a deepwater harbor for small craft, rugged limestone cliffs, a sand beach for swimming, and good fishing. It has long been a recreation spot for visitors as well as local people.

Rogers visited Fayette Monday on an inspection of the proposed state park. He was in Escanaba for two days attending a meeting of the local planning institute for the Upper Peninsula, sponsored by the Michigan Planning Commission.

An over-all plan for the location of state parks in Michigan is being undertaken, Rogers said. This "master plan" will be followed in establishing new parks and in planning for the development of existing parks, he said.

Rogers explained the procedure whereby state parks are established. After a careful study has been made by parks division personnel, the state conservation commission decides whether it will recommend purchase of the required property by the state. If this recommendation is made, it is necessary for the state legislature to appropriate funds for purchase of the site and its development.

Escanabans Attend U.C.T. Convention

Escanaba was represented at the state convention of the United Commercial Travelers held at Saginaw last weekend. Representing Escanaba council No. 616 were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin R. Oslund, Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer E. Johnson and I. R. Peterson.

Delegations from Iron Mountain and Marquette also were in attendance.

Grand Rapids was awarded the 1947 convention.

U. C. T. state officers for 1946-47 will be: Grand Counselor, Alfred DeHaan, Grand Rapids; grand past counselor, Oren M. Leidlein, Saginaw; grand junior counselor, S. James McGregor; grand secretary, Walter R. Shaw, Kalamazoo; grand treasurer, Lee L. Fullerton, Coldwater; grand conductor, Walter M. Greeson, Flint; grand page, G. Frank McConnell, Lansing; grand sentinel, M. A. Marwede, Detroit.

A number of Lower Michigan councils pledged their support to Mr. Peterson for the office of grand sentinel at next year's convention.

Escanaba Will Be Pick-Up Point On "G.I. Airlines"

Application to the Civil Aeronautics Board for the most extensive mail and express pick-up service yet to be planned by any airline, was made recently by "G-I Airlines", Milwaukee, for 3,500 route miles serving 200 towns and terminal cities in Wisconsin and four neighboring states.

Although no airline today is completely certified for mail and air express pick-up operations—a war born process of snatching from the ground up to 200 pounds of weight by a speeding airplane—"G-I Airlines" has been conducting experiments for many months and will be ready to begin operations within ninety days of certification, pending favorable action by the CAB.

The new company will be capitalized at half a million dollars upon certification.

The operation is planned to provide self sufficient mail and air express service, and an effective means of communication to the highly industrialized small cities within a 350 mile radius, west and northwest of Chicago and Milwaukee.

Escanaba On Routes

The planned 3,500 route miles, will comprise six routes, four beginning at Chicago and two at Milwaukee. Route 1—Chicago to Mason City, Iowa, with 26 intermediate mail and express pick-up points. Route 1-A—Chicago to Des Moines, Iowa, 23 intermediate pick-up points. Route 2—Chicago to Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota, with 36 points served. Route 3—Chicago to Minneapolis and St. Paul with 38 intermediate points. Routes 2 and 3 will not serve duplicate areas. Route 2 will cover the western locality of Wisconsin, while Route 3 will cover the central areas. Route 4—Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota, with 34 intermediate points. Route 5—Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to Superior, Wisconsin, and Duluth, Minnesota, 35 pick-up areas.

Escanaba will be one of the pick-up points on Route 5.

Routes 1 and 1-A will depart Chicago at 0300 (twenty-four hour clock used) while Routes 2 to 5 will depart 0200. Two daily round trips will be made over each route, the first trip for early morning mail and an afternoon trip for end of day mail and express. These schedules are set up to meet trunk line air routes at terminal points with a minimum loss of time.

G-I Airlines plan to use nine ventions. Mr. Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Escanaba council, was elected secretary-treasurer of the U. C. T. secretaries-treasurers association.

airplanes, all twin engine Beechcraft D-18C models with 525 h. p. engines and specially designed pick-up gear worked out between Anderson and Beech Aircraft corporation. Cruising speed of the Beech is between 180 and 200 miles per hour, but to effect the maximum pick-up of 200 pounds, the plane will be slowed down to 150 miles per hour, and with that maintained as a cruising speed between terminal points.

Also new in this field is the fact that pick-up operations will continue around the clock. Special lighting facilities for night operations are being designed that will give the pilot complete illumination of the area to be used for setting up ground pick-up gear. This will also serve as a navigational aid, as no subsidies are requested of the government for navigation aids and airport development. The only landings effected along the routes will be at terminal points to discharge and pick-up mail and air express. Revenue as well as non-revenue government mail will be carried.

Potatoes can well be the solution to the problem of world famine. Fortunately we have a large crop of potatoes this season—and by using them instead of bread, for they have the equivalent nutritious values as bread, much of our wheat can be sent to starving peoples throughout the world.

So use plenty of the California long, white potatoes. They are ideal for all cooking purposes—have very little waste in peeling—and are an excellent value at the present time.

Dorothy Hilty Is The Bride Of Robert Baeuerlen

St. Joseph's church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday which united in marriage Miss Dorothy Hilty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hilty, of Gary, Ind., and Robert Baeuerlen, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Carl Baeuerlen, Sr., of Winona, Minn. The bride, a well-known teacher in the Escanaba schools, has been teaching here since 1944.

Miss Bernadette Lochner, the maid of honor, and attendants were Miss Lois Pearson and Mrs. Robert Hilty.

The bride wore a gown of white organdy, styled with a full skirt and fitted bodice which buttoned down the back. Long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists, and the gown was fashioned with a high neckline. Clusters of lilies of the valley held the bride's lace veil in place, and she carried a prayer book decorated with gardenias and streamers tied with sweet peas.

Miss Lochner wore a blue gown with a taffeta bodice and net skirt. Miss Pearson's gown was of pink net, and Mrs. Hilty wore green chiffon. The attendants carried colonial bouquets of gladioli, snapdragons and carnations, and wore fresh flowers in their hair.

Bob Renaly was the best man, and ushers were Carl Baeuerlen, Jr., and Robert Hilty.

Solos of the mass were sung by Mrs. Eldridge Baker, Mrs. John Cass, and Mrs. John Bartel. At the offertory, Mrs. Palmer, close friend of the bride, sang Schubert's "Ave Maria." At the communion, Frank's "Panis Angelicus" was sung by Miss Doris Cost-ley. At the close of the service, Mrs. Palmer sang "We Give Thee Our Love." The traditional wedding marches were played by the organist, Miss Eva Cosette.

Following the ceremony, a horse-drawn carriage took the couple to the Escanaba Country Club, where a wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Baeuerlen left in the afternoon for Winona, Minn., the bride wearing a dress of green and fuchsia on a white background, with a fuchsia shortie coat. Her hat was of white and fuchsia flowers, and she wore a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mr. Baeuerlen, a teacher in the Winona schools, will complete his school year there in another week, and the couple will leave for Minneapolis, where they plan to reside.

GILBERT TALKS ON EDUCATION

Says Schools Must Lead
In Community
Planning

The need for planning in the community educational program was emphasized by George D. Gilbert, regional supervisor, state department of public instruction, in a talk at the local planning institute yesterday.

"The Upper Peninsula has the same gauntlet of educational problems as the other communities of the state. Two problems are of sufficient importance to demand the consideration of this group. First, because there is a degree of urgency regarding them, and second, because their solution depends upon adequate local and area planning.

"The first of these problems is that of reorganization. In state circles the Upper Peninsula is looked upon as having an ideal set up to organization basis. The fifteen counties of the upper peninsula have fewer school districts than Kent county. Regardless of size, in terms of land area, the vast majority of Upper Peninsula school districts have too few children to operate an adequate school program. With the exception of a half dozen isolated areas, reorganization could be brought about so we could have an improved educational program without working any severe hardship to children.

"The second problem deals with the place of the school in community improvement. The Upper Peninsula, although it is not basically agricultural, is rural in that there are large areas of sparsely settled land. The economic, social, health, religious, and national welfare of these areas or communities depend upon community planning. The schools must take an important place, if not assume leadership, for such community or area planning.

"Within the last year we have held meetings in four of the fifteen counties of the Upper Peninsula for the purpose of developing leadership for community planning. We are trying to follow through to get this planning into the individual communities. We hope next year to promote more such meetings on a county level in those counties that have not made the start.

"The two school problems I have raised are interdependent.

INSTITUTE SPEAKER—Gov. Harry F. Kelly addressed about 150 persons at the local planning institute banquet held at the Sherman hotel Monday night. The governor left yesterday morning for Higgins Lake, Roscommon, where he will address a group of Michigan newspaper publishers today.

Meanest Man Kills Dog By Tying It To Railway Track

"I have seen the meanest man in town."

This was the statement made by Al Baker, Chicago and North Western railway engineer, as he came in the Daily Press office yesterday afternoon to report the inhumane killing of a dog.

As train 224 was leaving the west city limits of Escanaba at 3:35 Monday afternoon, Engineer Baker saw a man cross the track and stand not far away from a small object on one of the rails. At first, he thought it was a sheet of brown paper but as the engine approached nearer he recognized it as some kind of small animal. He was unable to stop the passenger.

Area planning will result in a more adequate school program. An adequate school program will provide leadership in better community living."

WATER SUPPLY IS DISCUSSED

Faust Urges Planning
Needed Extensions
For The Future

Public water supply and sewer systems were discussed by Raymond J. Faust, division of water supply, Michigan department of health, in a talk at the local planning institute here yesterday.

"Every home in an incorporated community should have the use of a public water supply and sewer system for convenience, fire protection and safety," Mr. Faust said. "Many towns with one or both of these utilities have incomplete coverage in their corporate limits necessitating the use of private wells and sewage disposal systems, many of which are of questionable safety and efficiency. Planning now to extend these services insures a healthy and progressive community for the future.

"Incorporated communities without water and sewer systems would do well to seriously consider the advantages to be derived from such facilities. An example of their desirability is indicated by the fact that all towns in Michigan with a population of 1,000 or more have public water supply systems, as do 144 towns with populations under 500. Practically 80% of the entire population of Michigan is now using water from public systems, and not a single case of typhoid fever has been attributed to any of these supplies during the past 12 consecutive years.

"Planning is needed now for sewage and industrial waste treatment for those towns polluting water courses. The public insistence on clean rivers and lakes is illustrated by the fact that the sewage from about 83% of the municipal population of Michigan is being treated.

Overtime Parking Violations Fewer, Others On Increase

Although there have been fewer violations of the overtime parking restriction on Ludington street by local residents in the past week, other traffic violations are on the increase, officers report. More motorists are using the street corner spaces reserved for bus stops and drivers have been forgetting that it is violation to park in front of fire hydrants.

Officers remind drivers that it is necessary in parking downtown to use only the space between the yellow parking lines. A single car incorrectly parked can throw an entire block of parked vehicles out of line.

NOTICE TO REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF DELTA COUNTY:

I desire to be nominated as Representative to the State Legislature on the Republican ticket at the Primary Election, to be held throughout Delta County on the eighteenth day of June, 1946. My nomination petitions were circulated and the required number of voters signed and my petitions were filed with the County Clerk in the regular way. The law required that I file an affidavit of my identification with the County Clerk within three days from the the 23d day of April, 1946. At that time I was in the City of Chicago on business so that it was impossible for me to file the affidavit of identification as required by law. Because of this omission, my name will not appear on the primary ballot so that if I am nominated, I will have to be nominated on slips. You will find on the regular Republican primary ballot a vacancy for the office of State Representative.

It will be necessary for you to do two things for my nomination.

FIRST: EITHER PASTE ONE OF MY SLIPS OR WRITE MY NAME IN THE VACANT PLACE PRINTED ON THE BALLOT for STATE REPRESENTATIVE

SECOND: PUT A CROSS IN THE SQUARE BEFORE MY NAME.

Both are absolutely necessary. I must receive 15% of the highest vote cast for any candidate on the Republican ticket so I am asking all of my friends throughout the County to be sure and place my name on the Republican ballot as above described.

Airborne Crew Halts Blaze In Isle Royale Park

Iron Mountain—Quick action by Milo Fontana, of the Fontana School of Aeronautics, Iron Mountain, served to halt, early Sunday morning, what may have been a disastrous forest fire at Isle Royale National Park, off Houghton in Lake Superior, and demonstrated again the advantage of air-patrol and transportation in emergencies of this nature.

Shortly after midnight, Saturday, according to the report, fire was spotted on Isle Royale by the crew of a lake steamer. The news was radioed to the park headquarters on the island, which quickly notified the Isle Royale office at Houghton. Fontana was called at about 2 a. m., asking if he could leave at once for Isle Royale and assist in taking men and firefighting equipment to the scene.

Fontana hurried to the Ford airport, prepared his Grumman amphibian and took off at about 4:30 for Houghton. He landed, at 6 a. m., in Rock Harbor, near the Isle Royale headquarters. There he was advised that the blaze was raging in about the center of the park area, and that he might, with some maneuvering, be able to land on a small lake near the scene.

The City of Gladstone will participate in a proposed outer harbor improvement to the extent of $15,000 providing the Gladstone Yacht club contributes $5,000 for the same purpose and the project is approved, it was decided by the city commission in regular session Monday evening.

Army engineers are to conduct a hearing on the requested improvement here Thursday.

Efforts To Find Body Of Drowning Victim Fruitless

Yesterday's search by Captain Dan Garrett, Escanaba, lighthouse keeper, with members of the Michigan state police and county sheriff's department for the body of John E. Thompson, young Gladstone veteran who was drowned Sunday evening in Little Bay de Noc, proved unavailing.

Despite a desperate attempt by his brother, Lt. Walter Thompson, to save him after he fell from the cabin cruiser in which the two were riding, Thompson lost his life in the rough, cold water off the Tannery location, and efforts to locate the body have so far been fruitless.

The search will be resumed today.

A picture of you and your telephone

No, NO, NOT THAT! We certainly do not suggest that you include your telephone's photo in the family album. But you may welcome a picture of your telephone service—and how we plan to make it bigger and better. So here goes.

Right now we are working at top-speed on a 5-year $150,000,000 expansion and improvement program. Our first objective is to supply service to the thousands of families who are still waiting for telephones. But this program is intended to do much more than that. It will enable us to care for future growth and give everyone the kind of service wanted when and where it is wanted.

And Michigan Bell's earnings are in the picture, too, for good telephone service depends on adequate earnings. Thousands of thrifty people have their savings invested in Bell System securities. Their money makes good service possible. In fact, Michigan Bell's $150,000,000 post-war program will be financed largely by these and other investors. And that program will provide more and better telephone service for you.

So you see, telephone rates—such a small part of your monthly budget—must be maintained at a level which will keep our earnings adequate. Otherwise, investors would not put their money into the telephone business, and the future quality and extent of your telephone service would suffer.

We believe our customers want good telephone service, even if it costs a trifle more than inferior service.

Technical improvements over the years have brought rates for good service down and have kept them down in the face of rising costs. But if the recent rapid rise in costs continues, rate increases may become necessary. In any event, Michigan Bell wants rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to insure good telephone service.

American Legion Sport Program On July 4 Approved

Munising—The proposed schedule of sports program for the Fourth of July celebration in Munising this year was approved by the general committee at a meeting Monday evening at the Legion club.

The sports program will take over a half day to run off and will include street races for children, baseball games, tug of war between two teams from local industrial plants, a water fight, a greased-pole climbing event and a boxing show which will have eight or ten fights on it, with Munising, Escanaba and Manistique boxers on the card.

Music for the day will probably be furnished by the Mather high school band and a "Little German band" which will be organized to roam the streets and play throughout the entire day, the committee said.

A good response by business houses to invitations to participate in the parade has been made, it was announced by Gene Christman, chairman of the parade committee, and he expects that a large number of floats will be entered. A special bid is being made for novelty and comic parades, he said, and also pointed out that special prizes will be offered in that section of the parade. School children will have a place in the marching, he stated.

Concluding the day's celebration will be a display of fireworks to be shot from the city dock.

Recreation Program To Start On Monday

Munising—The city commission announced yesterday that Robert Villemure, Mather high school athletic coach, has been appointed city recreation director for the summer months.

The recreation program will begin Monday, June 17, with a meeting at the playground of all children interested in summer sports. The meeting will be held at 9 a. m.

Mr. Villemure announced that the program will include a baseball program for children nine to seventeen years of age, tennis, games, swimming, organized hikes, volleyball and archery. There may be activities for adults in the evening if enough interest is shown, he said. Frank Aley will probably handle the archery classes.

Any child not entered in the American Legion baseball junior league, who wishes to do so, may make his application and be assigned a team when he attends the meeting on Monday morning. The junior leaguers will play on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

The following schedule for playing ball in the evening was announced by Mr. Villemure yesterday: (There will be no night lighting at the field this year.)

Playground—Monday, Legion; Tuesday, City Coals; Wednesday, Legion; Thursday, Coals; Friday, City team.

Old Ball Park—Monday, Softball; Tuesday, Juniors; Wednesday, Softball; Thursday, Juniors; Friday, Juniors.

WILL INSTRUCT BAND BEGINNERS

Summer School Band Practices Begin Monday

The summer music schedule will go into effect starting next Monday it was announced yesterday by Mr. Giovanni, director of music at the high school. Mr. Giovanni will be in the music room on the third floor of the junior high school building all day starting next Monday for the purpose of registering all students who are interested in beginning on a band instrument this summer. The north door of the junior high school building will be open for use by the students.

A record registration is expected from the inquiries already received by the bandmaster. The summer is the ideal time for students to begin in that they are given individual attention for a period of two months which should give them a good start on an instrument. Lessons will be given daily until the first of August. Each student will be given one or two individual lessons a week depending on the student's progress.

Applications are welcomed for all instruments. There is a constant need for additional members from piccolo to tuba. "Clarinetists are going to be especially important this year. With our graduating class went four of our first chair clarinetists and replacements are necessary," he said.

All boys and girls who are interested in playing are asked to contact Mr. Giovanni next week. It should be noted that the school does not have any of the small reed instruments for use by the students. This includes all such instruments as clarinets, saxophones, cornets, trumpets or flutes. These instruments must be furnished by the students if he wishes to take part. New instruments are not as yet available but good reconditioned instruments may be purchased which in many cases will serve very nicely.

So parents! If your child is in the 6th, 7th or 8th grade why not start him this summer on an instrument?

The high school band will hold its first summer rehearsal next week on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the band who are in town are asked to be present.

COLLEGE HEAD SPEAKS HERE

Stresses Fundamentals Of Education As Most Important

We haven't begun to catch up with the founding fathers of our country in their knowledge of sound principles of government, Clark G. Kuebler, president of Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., told members of Manistique high school's graduating class at commencement exercises Monday evening.

The college president's address was largely devoted to a plea for a more solid grasp of fundamentals in education. We have learned from experience in the recent war that many people who possessed college degrees were not educated, he said. People have been acquiring the advantages of higher education who have, at the same time, slighted such essentials of learning as grammar, mathematics and history.

No person can ever become well educated, he said, who is not conscious of how little he knows; who has not respect for learning, and who has not a willingness to learn. He recommended as a foundation for learning, a competent knowledge of one's own language—particularly a knowledge of grammar; a knowledge of mathematics, which is the basis of practically all modern science and a knowledge of history so as to gain a proper understanding of the ways and wherefores of our government; a knowledge of foreign languages so as to acquire a broader understanding of our fellow citizens, but more important than that—a broader understanding of the English language.

Dr. Kuebler's address was a part of an impressive program which culminated in the presentation, by Benjamin Gero Jr., president of the board of education, of diplomas to 76 graduates of Manistique high school, eight of whom were veterans of World War II.

Supt. A. F. Hall presided.

Move To Paint Youth Center Poses Problem

Patrons of Manistique's Youth Center are in a quandary.

The boys and girls who have found this recreation center very much to their liking, have become very much concerned over the prospect of its being closed for the summer and are bringing pressure in their own way to have it remain open for the summer.

They have been told, however, by the Manistique Recreation Commission officials, under whose sponsorship it has been conducted, that if it is to remain open, the place cannot be painted.

The youngsters have been clamoring to have the place painted, because they are proud of the youth center and want the exterior of the building to be as presentable as the interior, which it is not; but when confronted with the prospect of getting along without the center for the summer, their ardor for dolling up the place has cooled.

"Do you suppose, if we passed the hat, we could get enough to paint the place?" a group of young people asked the Press representative.

The Press passes the problem on so that the public may understand the situation should a donation be asked.

The boys will have their hearing in juvenile court Wednesday morning. Also appearing at that time will be the Gulliver boy who was arrested Monday and charged with breaking into the Klugstad general store and stealing a quantity of merchandise and money.

Local Library Receives Check From State Board

The Manistique Library was enriched by $336.36 this week, a check for that amount having been received in Tuesday morning's mail from the State Board of Libraries.

This sum, Mrs. Dorothy Shipman, librarian, explains, is from the General Library Fund grant. The amount is slightly larger than the amount received from the grant last year as the state legislature had, during its last session, voted an increase in the grant.

The money will be spent for general library improvement.

HENRY MESSER IS SUMMONED

Died Tuesday At Home Of Son In Doyle Township

Henry C. Messer, 77, for more than fifty years a resident of this vicinity, died Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Jesse, in Doyle township. He had been ill for the past six months.

Mr. Messer was born in Lincoln county, Kentucky, on February 12, 1869 and came to Manistique in the spring of 1896. Two years previous to this he resided at Manicelona. He attended the Baptist church. His wife died in 1907.

Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. E. J. Gould, Grand Rapids; three sons, Andrew J., of Grand Rapids; John B., of Rhinelander, Wis.; and Jesse, of Manistique. There are also 15 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The body is now at the Morton Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Two Are Held—Charged With Theft Of Poles

Ernest LaLonde and Perry Pardee, of Garden, were remanded to the custody of the sheriff after their appearance before Judge W. G. Stephens in justice court on charges of stealing a load of peeled cedar posts belonging to Enoch Asp of Hiawatha township. The pair demanded examination and the time for it was set for next Monday morning. A joint bond of $500 was set which they failed to provide.

The posts, according to authorities, were identified by Asp. He had stamped the end of each post with his initials. The ends of all but one of the posts had been sawed off. This one, evidently overlooked, was stamped "EA".

Dock Facilities At Local Harbor To Be Improved

Extension of dock facilities at the Manistique harbor is announced by John Girvin, of the Girvin Coal and Dock company.

Construction work will soon begin to put in a retaining wall along the shoreline that touches the roadway approaching the fish company properties and the coal docks. The work, Girvin states, has been made necessary because the water would otherwise wash out the roadway. The roadway will have to be shut off as soon as work begins and a different approach provided. Use of the road will again be resumed when the improvement is completed.

Americans now are taller on the average than any large group of people in history.

BEARS PRIMED FOR NEGAUNEE

Escanaba Club Can Get Out Of NWM Cellar Sunday

The Escanaba Bears looked over the standings in the Northern Wisconsin baseball league yesterday and after finding themselves all alone in the cellar decided they had better do something about it when they meet the Negaunee Rovers here next Sunday afternoon.

Until last Sunday the Bears shared the cellar berth with the Channing Railroaders, but Channing won a 3-2 disputed decision from Crystal Falls Sunday. A ruling from President Buck Anderson is expected soon on the controversial play.

The Bears can move out of the basement Sunday by defeating Negaunee if either the Iron Kings or the Iron River All Stars lose their games. Escanaba has one victory against four defeats in the league while the Iron Kings and Iron River each has two victories and four defeats. Negaunee is tied with Crystal Falls for third place in the standings with three victories and as many defeats.

The Escanaba club still has plenty of room to get into the upper half of the standings and a place in the Shaughnessy playoffs before the regular schedule is completed August 4. The first half of the schedule will be concluded this week, but the Bears still have a postponed game to make up with Channing.

Arrangements may be completed this week to make up the postponed game. The Bears are scheduled to play Channing June 23, a week from Sunday, but the game may be transferred to Escanaba as a part of a doubleheader on that date. The Escanaba Cubs will play Gladstone here on the 23rd in a Rainbow league game.

Fans Disagree With Doctors On Boxing Trim Of Joe Louis

BY SID FEDER

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 11—(AP)—The official doctors looked over Joe Louis today and decided he was a pretty fair piece of fighting machinery. But some 1,000 folks who saw the bomber go through a six-round workout got the impression that the medicine men should have told Joe's sparring partners about it.

Because, while Joe has looked poor in some of his workouts up to now since he opened his training camp here May 4, today he was so far off his flailing form of past years that his four sparring partners practically took a lease on him. Although he leveled at his punch-absorbers, he managed to land less than half a dozen shots that could be construed as firecrackers with the fuses lit.

It was by all odds Joe's poorest showing since he began to approach his peak in the past couple of weeks for his nose-mashing get-together with Billy Conn in Yankee stadium a week from tomorrow.

"He is in splendid condition," doctors William Walker and Vincent Nardiello reported officially. "His reflexes are quite sharp. His pulse was 62 normal, 71 on exercise and returned to normal in 40 seconds. His heart sounds perfectly regular, with good muscular quality."

PHILLIES SIGN UP NUSSBAUMER

Brilliant U. M. Star Ends Collegiate Career On Friday

East Lansing, June 11—(AP)—Outfielder Bob Nussbaumer, six letter winner at the University of Michigan, will close a brilliant collegiate athletic career Friday when he appears with the Mid-West College All-Stars in the first annual East-Midwest All-Star baseball game in Fenway Park, Boston.

Michigan State coach John H. Kobs, in charge of selecting the midwest team, announced today that Nussbaumer, who Tuesday signed a contract with the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League, had agreed to play for the midwesterners. Ray Coates, Louisiana State university outfielder, has also been selected to the midwest team, Kobs announced, bringing the squad total to 22 players.

The midwest squad will assemble in Fenway Park at noon Wednesday for their only workout before the All-Star game, which will be sponsored by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches. The game was originated as a move to establish college baseball on an intercollegiate basis. Nussbaumer, bullet right half-back for Wolverine football teams the last three seasons, batted at a .385 clip during the recent baseball season as Michigan won 18 and lost two games. He is one of the fastest base runners in college baseball today.

The largest concentration of major league scouts ever assembled is expected to be on hand Friday to watch the cream of college baseball players in action.

Ray Fisher, University of Michigan coach, heads the midwest's coaching staff while Jack Barry of Holy Cross will direct the easterners.

Grimm And O'Neill To Lead All-Stars

Boston, June 11—(AP)—Steve O'Neill of the Detroit Tigers and Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs today were officially named to lead the American and National league teams, respectively, in the 13th Major League All-Star game at Fenway Park on July 9.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler announced final arrangements for the game after a meeting with seven other club and league officials. Choice of O'Neill and Grimm followed the custom of selecting the managers previous season's world series contenders.

Receipts from the game, which during the war went to Army and Navy relief, will go into the Baseball Welfare Fund, Inc., this year for the relief of old-time players.

Softball players who have been using baseball cleats in the local softball league have been given definite warning that only cleats 3/8ths of an inch in length—or shorter—will be tolerated by the association. This means that baseball shoes can be used in the softball leagues only after the cleats have been filed down to conform to the regulations. Also they must be blunt. League officials reported that a number of players are using illegal cleats.

Work has been started on the erection of the cyclone fence at the lighted field. The job may require a couple weeks for completion but the enclosure should be complete on or about the Fourth of July. Thereafter the softball association will make a direct

BASEBALL GUILD GETS SETBACK

Pittsburgh, June 11—(AP)—Robert Murphy's drive to unionize major league baseball players received a second setback today when the National Labor Relations Board advised its regional office here to dismiss actions brought by the American Baseball Guild against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Frank M. Kleier, head of the Pittsburgh Regional Office, said he had received orders from Washington "not to hold formal hearings at this time which could involve the question of possible jurisdiction over professional baseball teams."

Murphy, who got his first rebuff last Friday night when the Pirates dramatically called off a threatened strike in a game with the New York Giants, had petitioned the NLRB for certification of the guild as collective bargaining agents for the team and charged management had:

"Urged employees to deal with management through a players' committee instead of through the Guild."

2—"By oral statements attempted to persuade employees to cease their membership in any activities in behalf of the Guild."

"Both the petition (for an election) and the charge (of unfair labor practices) will be dismissed if they are not withdrawn," Kleier said he was advised.

Vander Meer Goes Route At Least As Reds Take Giants

Cincinnati, June 11 (P)—Johnny Vander Meer finally went the route for the Cincinnati Reds tonight, scattering eight hits as he beat the New York Giants, 3-2. A crowd of 18,110 saw the game, boosting Crosley field attendance this season to 307,463—12,676 more than saw the Reds at home all last season.

charge for admittance to league games and will abandon the practice of taking free will collections. Collectors at the games report that it is amazing that so many fans "forgot to take some change along."

Manager Johnny Schwalbach of the Escanaba Bears reports that he can really understand why many of the ball clubs in the NWM league are sporting fancy batting averages. Schwalbach claims that many of the scorers are passing out hits on plays that obviously should be ruled as errors. At Iron Mountain Sunday, the official scorer credited a hit on an overthrow at first base in which the runner would have been out by a mile if the peg had been true, Schwalbach said. He credited each team with seven hits each but the official scorer allowed 10 for Iron Mt. and eight for Escanaba.

The Bears will meet the Negaunee Rovers, one of the high ranking teams in the NWM league here next Sunday. Ralph Gustafson, Negaunee hurler, set down Iron River with four hits Sunday in chalking up a 4-3 victory over the All Stars. The Bears are determined to chalk up their second league victory at the expense of the Rovers. The other Escanaba club, the Cubs, will play at Chatham, seeking their first victory in the Rainbow league.

Walleye fishing at the head of the bay this spring has been the best in many years, with the best catches coming in the evening just before and right after sundown. Most of the catches have been on June bug spinners and a gob of worms. Although many hundreds of walleyes have been taken from the bay by sports fishermen, the fish have not been large and most of them have to be measured to determine whether they are of legal 14 inch size. The prize walleye catch to date is a 8 1/4 pounder taken at Ogontz bay. A flat fish bagged that one.

The baseball renaissance has extended to the smaller communities. At Perronville last Sunday when the Cloverland league leading Bank River club played Perronville, the take was reported to be $111 on a two-bit admission scale. Bank River has been averaging $75 per game on the same basis. The total receipts at baseball games throughout the nation this year will be by far the heaviest in the history of the game. Many sandlot and minor league clubs that have been in the red year after year probably will show a profit this time.

Pitching Duel Goes To White Sox, 1-0, Over Philadelphia

YANKS DOWNED BY NEWHOUSER

Homers By Greenberg And Wakefield Help Tigers Win, 8-3

New York, June 11. (P)—Hurricane Hal Newhouser, with the aid of a 12-hit barrage that included homers by Hank Greenberg and Dick Wakefield, chalked up his tenth win of the season today as the Detroit Tigers downed the New York Yankees, 8-3, before 20,203 spectators.

Newhouser fanned nine and yielded nine hits but wasn't able to coast until the ninth when his mates shoved four runs across the plate on three singles, a force out, error, Wakefield's four-bagger and a triple by Jimmy Bloodworth. Greenberg blasted his 14th homer of the year in the sixth to break a 2-2 tie and the Tigers added another in the seventh off starter Floyd Bevens on Doc Chamber's triple and single by Jimmy Outlaw.

Nick Etten benched The Yanks nipped Newhouser for a run in the first inning on a walk and double by Charley Keller. Detroit tied the score in the fourth on a walk and two singles and took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Cramer's single and Outlaw's triple. New York came back with one run in its half on Gus Niarhos' triple and Frankie Crosetti's one bagger, and scored its final run in the ninth on two singles, a wild pitch and a fly ball.

Nick Etten, regular Yankee first baseman since 1943 was benched in favor of Johnny Lindell. Etten had appeared in 513 consecutive games prior to his benching.

The Tigers, who found their batting eyes in an 11-3 win over the Yankees Monday, took up today with another 12-hit barrage, including seven extra base blows.

Newhouser fanned nine, walked three and was charged with two wild pitches as he chalked up his tenth win as against a pair of defeats—both at the hands of the Red Sox.

Dr. F. A. Banks Owned First Automobile Here

The golden jubilee of the automotive industry, celebrated early this month in the industry's capital in Detroit, recalls to old-timers in Escanaba some of the adventures and misadventures of the first car owners in this community.

Dr. F. A. Banks, father of Dr. Roy Banks, Escanaba dentist, owned the first automobile here. It was a handsome one-cylinder Knoxmobile and was delivered on June 2, 1902. The appearance on the main street of this one-lunger caused citizens to stand by to calm their frightened horses and to warn other pedestrians that they were taking their life in their hands by stepping into the street while the mechanical monster was at large. Far from being popular, the "go-devil" was regarded first with suspicion, then with derision and fear.

Escanaba's only paved streets then were 14th street and Tenth avenue and citizens afoot and in horse drawn vehicles soon learned to be doubly careful as these thoroughfares became popular with the first gas and electric driven contraptions. The most conservative looked upon the horseless carriage as the work of the devil from which nothing but evil was certain to result.

Dr. Banks frequently took his machine along on ferry excursions to Washington Island and Fayette where natives stared at the vehicle wide-eyed with curiosity and crowds of incredulous citizens followed the contraption as it sped giddily along the dusty country roads, leaving in its wake trembling horses, bawling children and angry farmers at their wits' end trying to calm their upset herds.

George Preston, a druggist, was one of the early automobile owners too, and Atty. J. F. Carey owned the first touring car here, a "Ramblor", the last word then in beauty, speed and mechanical efficiency. The prim maidens lucky enough to be asked to ride in one of these jobs amused passers-by with a glimpse of their full length Pantaloons when the breeze whipped their gowns around their ears. Oh, boy! Those were the days!

Coval Royce, father of Eugene and Fred Royce, Escanaba bankers, was the proud possessor of one of the first Duryea models in the city. Charles E. Duryea is generally credited with having made the first sale of a motor car in America. He had built one of the first cars with the aid of his brother, J. Frank Duryea, in 1892.

All of these earliest models looked weird even in comparison to the famous Ford Model T, which made several billions of dollars for the Ford company and the name of Henry Ford known all over the world.

But if a couple of thousand new Model Ts went on the market today they'd probably be snapped up faster than you could say "valve-in-head engine"—and not at ceiling prices either.

Chicago, June 11—(AP)—Five straight first inning hits scored all the runs the Philadelphia Phillies needed to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 4-1, today for their third consecutive victory and No. 10 in the past 14 starts.

After two were out, the Phillies teed off against starter Hank Wyse. Before Bill Fleming stopped them, the Phillies had completed their damage. Fleming proceeded to blend his pitching talents with Emil Kush and Johnny Schmitz to check the climbing cellar-dwellers with one hit rest of the distance.

Boston, June 11—(AP)—With Mike Higgins and Rudy York in murderous batting moods, the Red Sox stretched their American league lead to 10 games over the Yankees today by coming from behind to trounce the Cleveland Indians, 10-5.

It was the Soxers' 12th win in a row and their 19th straight home triumph of the season over western rivals. It also was their 41st win in 50 games.

The Red Sox pounded three Indian pitchers for 14 hits and a total of 28 bases. Among them were Ted Williams' 13th homer, York's eighth and Higgins' first of the campaign.

Higgins also collected a triple and two singles while driving in six of the Boston runs and York, who went four for four, also bashed a pair of two-baggers.

ROGERS FAVORS PARK PLANNING

City, County, State And Federal Governments Are Responsible

Use of the land to its best advantage for recreational purposes is an result only through careful planning by each governmental unit responsible for providing recreation facilities, John I. Rogers, assistant chief, parks and recreation division of the Michigan conservation department, said yesterday in connection with the local planning institute.

"A responsibility rests upon each subdivision of government to provide lands and facilities even down to the local level," Rogers said.

"Let us explore the responsibility of each unit of government to provide recreation. The need for recreation can be divided into categories of the time that people have to participate in recreation. There is the need for recreation from day to day where the person has only a couple hours to spend for recreation. The logical unit to provide for this need is the city or urban government. The next category is the need for recreation lands and facilities for those who have a half to a full day to spend but do not have the means to go very far from their homes. They are interested in picnicking, games, family reunions, childrens play grounds, ice skating rinks, band concerts and the like. They want to go to a park with more natural features than usually exist in the city park. The logical unit to provide for this need is the county government through county parks.

"The third category is the need for recreation lands and facilities for those who have a day to a week or more to spend for recreation and wish to spend it in an area of natural beauty and with a forest background. They want to be able to swim, picnic, camp, hike, ride horseback, play games, ski, toboggan. This requires large areas of lands beyond the means of the city or county governments to acquire or develop. The logical unit to provide for this need is the state government.

"There is a fourth category which is the need for recreational lands and facilities for those who have time to travel extensively and wish to see some of the outstanding natural beauty spots of the nation, areas of geological or historic interest, and wilderness. This need is provided for in our national parks by the federal unit of government," Rogers continued.

"The National Recreation Association from its extensive studies has recommended for many years that each unit of government meet its responsibility in providing recreation. It recommends that one acre per one hundred people in population be acquired by cities for city parks, another acre per hundred people be acquired by county or regional park authorities, and another acre per hundred people be acquired by the state government for state park and recreation areas.

"It is very apparent from these facts that recreation is a large factor in area planning whether it be city, county or state-wide in extent. In an outline for a county plan, recreation should carry the same rank of importance as the road system, the school system, health and sanitation. Sufficient

Tribute Is Paid To The Memory Of Walter Tredup

Dedication ceremonies were held recently at the LaRbida sanitarium, Jackson Park, Chicago, paying tribute to the memory of Walter Tredup, a long-time resident of southeast Chicago and an active participant in many Chicago civic affairs, who died recently.

Mr. Tredup was well-known in Escanaba, having spent many summers here. Mrs. Tredup is the former Gertrude Gallagher of this city.

A bed and complete equipment were donated to the sanitarium by several of Mr. Tredup's wartime associates, district commanders of the office of Civilian Defense.

Rev. Arthur H. Kaub, pastor of the Windsor Park Lutheran church, officiated at the dedication. Attendance at the service was limited to family members, who are: Mrs. Gertrude Tredup, widow; Donna, daughter; Fred Tredup and family, brother; Emma, Margaret and Sally Tredup, sisters.

The donated bed and equipment will enable the sanitarium to treat an additional child who is afflicted with rheumatic heart disease. Treatment by the finest pediatricians will be available without cost, in most cases until the patient is cured. As a director of the South Chicago YMCA for many years, and with a deep interest in Neighborhood House, Mr. Tredup was always interested in children.

SAYS MASTER PLAN NEEDED

Robert N. Cross Gives Talk At Planning Institute Here

Community planning and the development of a master plan are important tools in efforts to attain a high standard of living for all citizens, Robert N. Cross, bureau of business research, University of Michigan, declared at the local planning institute here.

"The physical planning for a city, town or area endeavors to provide community facilities which will improve health, education, safety and recreation opportunities for citizens," Mr. Cross said.

"To be realistic, however, community planning and the master plan must be formulated in the light of the long term outlook for the future earning power of the citizens and industries found in the area. Careful and realistic judgments must be made on this point if the waste and loss which can result from overly optimistic or overly pessimistic views are to be avoided.

"It is recognized that adequate community facilities for an existing and prospective population should be provided for in the master plan. However, the ability of the community to finance the initial construction cost and the continuing maintenance expense of the physical development program must be appraised through an examination of the character and trends of local government revenues.

"Basically the volume of local tax revenues depends upon the character of community wealth and the nature of economic activity in the area. It varies, community by community, depending upon the size and wealth of the trading areas, the relative abundance or scarcity of natural resources, and the character of the industries operating in the community and in the area.

"An appraisal of the present and future economic welfare of a community must precede the development of a master plan if the plan is to fit the community not only as it exists at present but as it appears likely to be constituted in the future. Such an examination of the economic base of the community should, in addition to being a fact finding program, be also a critical program. It should provide a frank appraisal of the advantages and disadvantages of the community and the area."

Board Of Review Adjourns; To Meet Again On June 18

The city's board of review adjourned Monday night after being in session for seven days and will meet again on Tuesday, June 18, to complete unfinished business.

Members of the board are Mayor Marvin L. Coon, City Clerk Carl E. Anderson, C. W. Stoll, Charles Priester and Elmer Kloss.
